School Is the Key to Your Child's Future

1. What your child learns in school becomes essential to living as an adult
2. Going to school regularly is important to learning- it's hard to play catch-up once you miss a lot of school
3. If your child is not doing well in school it may be that the work is more challenging than it should be or your child may have a learning disorder- ask your child's teacher for help
4. Become a part of the planning team for your child's education-it's your child and you have the right to give your input
5. Make sure you know your child's educational plans and have set goals for what you would like your child to accomplish
6. Ask your child's teachers to teach your child the skills you think he/she will need
7. Your school should accommodate you with the things your child needs for therapy or healthcare procedures
8. If you and your child need help-ask for it...
